1974 Election Guide

No sooner do the sample ballots go into the mail than newspaper editors and political writers start getting calls.

Readers want to know who and what to vote for—and why. Not only does this newspaper office get many such calls but a score of readers bring in their sample ballots and ask to have them marked. Walsh said, "What we are trying to do is to let the communities know where they can go to vote, something, I think, will bring a higher volume of voters to the polls." Walsh commented that this is the first time any county government in California has done anything like this and he said he hopes this action will bring about a significant increase in voting returns.

SPOOKY PREVIEW — Davina Marmolejo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Marmolejo, models one of the masks that appear in tonight's "Spook House" at the Marmolejo home, 2402 Skyline dr., Lemon Grove.

Local 'Haunt' Shakes All Corners

2402 Skyline dr. transmutes into a haunted house between 6:30 and 9 tonight to spook out and entertain all comers on this festive Halloween.

The haunt, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Marmolejo, is sponsored by the Distributive Education Clubs of America at Mt. Miguel High School.

A similar haunting last year brought over 100 observers to the house. On the agenda tonight are booths selling Halloween goodies and a prize next month in Portland, Oregon.

Money raised from the sale of "goodies" will help pay to DECA expenses for a leadership conference slated for next month in Portland, Oregon.

Young and old are invited to visit the free haunted house.

The lot was beer, wine and cigarettes but it involved a number of witnesses in the neighborhood of the U-Totem Store at 3504 Bancroft st.

The suspects — five in number — were relaxed and friendly with witnesses.

One suspect threw a metal trash can through the plate glass window of the store. Another discussed the burglary with a neighbor who was attracted by the sound of breaking glass while his companion, Tootle, additionally, was entered the store through the hole in the window. Another narcotics paraphernalia when they found a hashish pipe on his person.

The four deputies still shaking their heads over the number of witnesses involved were Deputies R. Rinder, C. Henderson, R. Cottingham and R. Kerns.

The two suspects with the suspects had split and two took refuge under heavy brush ty jail.

ParaMed and Parking Presentations Made at Grove Chamber Board Meet

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, board of directors, presided over by vice president Bob Guest, agreed to set up a three-man parking study committee to develop both long and short range programs for easing the parking jams in the business section. Guest said the members of the committee would be announced after a conference with CoC president Dell Lake who was absent due to business commitments.

The board met officially, for the first time, its new office manager, Mrs. Glenda Jackson. She replaces Helen Myers who has taken a full-time job.

Wayne Hillman, Village Liquor store, a newcomer to Lemon Grove, was a guest.

He said that he has agreed to contribute two per cent of the profits of his store to the Lemon Grove needy families under the direction of the Lemon Grove Woman's club.

Dr. Sylvia Mick, director of Emergency Medical Services, sponsoring organization for the proposed east county paramedic, ambulance program—a five-team ambulance-medical service which Mick said would have the "ability to get patients to hospitals early enough to cut their stay by several days."

The proposal would set up a taxing district bounded by Lemon Grove, Lakeside-Santee, Pine Valley-Crest and Spring Valley. El Cajon and La Mesa may provide independent service.

The cost would be $721,354 the first year with almost 90% of the total going for salaries. The total would then rise at a rate of $30,000 a year, it was said.

The training program would be developed by the C. of Cal. Medical School at La Jolla under a federal grant.

The cost to homeowners of the a ParaMed District would be about 8 cents for each $100 assessed valuation or $6 a family. Additionally, there would be a "users' fee" of $30-35 for each call. Local service would be provided from a Spring Valley location.

ParaMed employees would undergo 500 hours of training

Following LAFCO approval, it must pass approval of voters in the proposed district. That date has not been set but probably will be quickly if LAFCO says OK.

At the Chamber meeting, Dr. Robert Burns, a director of the Lemon Grove Fire Protection District said that the proposal that ParaMed become a Fire Department function was unrealistic. "The District is now at its legal tax maximum. There is no way the District can add more taxes (except for a fraction of a cent which separates the present rate from absolute top).

"The suggestion that the Fire Department operate the service (Lakeside is attempting it that way presently) and the Fire Department's lawful inability to finance such a program (estimated cost to Lemon Grove $50,000 a year) has made us (the Fire Department) the "heavy" in the minds of many."

"Frankly," he told Dr. Mick, "our sources indicate that it will cost Lemon Grove residents considerably more than the cost you have indicated."

"The Fire Board has neither opposed nor supported the proposal. The Board simply said that the Fire District cannot legally finance it."

The ParaMed program was sponsored by the Lemon Grove Citizens Advisory Committee—a committee of five self-appointed members headed by Fred Anderson. None was in attendance at the Chamber meeting.

'School For Wives' Is Balboa Feature

A comedy classic, "School for Wives" by Moliere opens Tuesday, for a five-week run at the Cater Centre Stage in Balboa Park. The Moliere play was scheduled for this season following the popular success of "Tartuffe" last season.

Guest Director Bertram Tanswell has staged the 300-year old farce, scheduled to run nightly except Monday through December 8.

Matinees are scheduled each of the Sundays during the run except November 10. During Moliere's lifetime "School for Wives" was the most successful of his plays. It was performed more than any other of his works, and was often referred to as his happiest play.

In the play, Arnolphe is the enterprising and vain rogue who determines to have a faithful wife. He has a young orphan, Agnes, brought up in complete innocence to be his ideal bride, naive to the point of stupidity. He secretly changes his name to the more refined Monsieur La Souche.

But a young man, Horace, falls in love with Agnes. Unaware of the change of name, Horace confides his love to Arnolphe who, in turn, outwits himself by advising the young man in the ways of love. This kills Arnolphe's plans for a perfect marriage.

Due to successful subscription sales this year, only limited seating is available. Theatre-goers are advised to make their reservations early.

Adults in Day School at Helix

Helix Adult School in cooperation with Helix High School provides a program which allows adults who can't attend night school to take classes during the day with high school students.

Leonard E. Smith, adult school principal, explained that this unique program is designed to fill the needs of adults who cannot attend school in the evening.

Sixty adults are now enrolled in bookkeeping, shorthand, beginning and advanced typing, salesmanship, business lab, and learning lab classes.

Seventeen of the adults are enrolled in the learning lab class, designed to provide adults with the proper instruction to enable them to earn their high school diplomas.

The course is designed so that a minimal amount of student-teacher contact is necessary. Each adult works at his own pace in U.S. History, Government, English, Math, Science, or Reading. At the present time no high school students are enrolled in this course.

"If the initial success of this program is any indication of its popularity, the program will doubtlessly increase greatly," Busch said.

On November 27, a special film program presents Dr. Seuss' "Green Eggs and Ham," "Jack and the Beanstalk," and "Anatole."

All programs are free. The Spring Valley Library is located at 1043 Elkton Blvd.

The open filing period continues through Nov. 30 and extends after November if the campus has not reached quotas.

Students should apply during that month to be assured of consideration at UCSD as their first choice of the University of California's eight general campuses.

Application packets for undergraduate admission are available from high school and community college counselors or from the UCSD admissions office, Building 102, Matthews campus. A non-refundable fee of $20 is required when filing an application.

Church Leaders, Abortion Agenda At Convention

DETROIT—The election of a new president and vice president and approval of a controversial statement of "comment and counsel" on abortion became the major order of business at the annual convention of the American Lutheran Church, in the Motor City, October 15.

The Rev. Dr. David W. Preus of Minneapolis was elected to his first full term as president and Dr. Fred W. Meuser of Columbus, Ohio was chosen to be the church's vice president. The two men will serve six-year terms.

The official comment on abortion was the most vigorously debated issue of the convention. "An off-revised statement, moderate in tone and describing itself as 'pro-life', was approved by a 500-379 vote," reported the church's office of communications.

Although the statement allowed for induced abortion as an "appropriate action under compelling individual circumstances," it described as "much preferable action that would prevent possible pregnancies."

Laffoon Boy on Mend Thanks to Prayer, Surgery

Dan Laffoon has a good chance of living a normal life. The seven-year-old boy's father, Rev. C. R. Laffoon of the La Presa Community Church expresses gratitude to the hundreds of Christians throughout California who prayerfully supported his son's recent open-heart surgery.

September 1, the Laffoon's waited in the Stanford Medical Center for surgeons to complete the first of three operations. Dan has had a heart defect since birth. It will be three months before doctors are able to substantiate effects of their work.

Rev. and Mrs. Laffoon stayed in motels while in Palo Alto until concerned people took them in. Red Cross brought their oldest son, James, home from North Carolina to take care of the family. The La Presa Community Church took a "love offering" and also aided spiritually.

"Prayer pulled Dan through," Pastor Laffoon said. S.T.

Women Voters List Choices On Tuesday Ballot Issues

Mignon Bowen, president of the San Diego County League of Woman Voters, announced League support of state propositions on the November ballot that are concerned with Constitutional revision, voting rights for ex-felons and low income housing.

The League also is supporting County Charter Amendments A and B, which have to do with the Board of Supervisors.

State Propositions 7, 8, 9 and 12 continue work to update and clarify the State Constitution, she said. Proposition 11 eliminates reference in the Constitution to the masculine gender.

Proposition 10 provides that ex-felons would be eligible to vote when their sentences and paroles have been completed.

Dana Quittner, president of the Grossmont-Cajon Valley League, reports that the League's position is that a felon's debt to society has been paid once the prison term has been completed.

Both Mrs. Bowen and Mrs. Quittner say that Proposition 15 is the League's top priority item. Proposition 15 removes the constitutional requirement that public low-cost housing projects be approved by local voters. The League believes this requirement to be a barrier to construction of low and moderate-income housing.

With regard to County measures, the League supports Proposition A because a study of County government in 1973 indicated that more supervisors were needed to responsibly represent the citizens. Passage of Proposition B will allow needed flexibility in drawing up supervisory districts.

These sessions will be held Wednesday nights, 7:30-9 p.m. at Avondale School, 8401 Stansbury st., Spring Valley.

The dates are November 6, 13, 20 and December 4 and 11.

Topics to be presented are Language Development, Motor Development, Discipline, Attitude Development, and Nutrition as it relates to learning.

Leader of the group is Louise Skinner, educational therapist, associated with the San Diego Chapter of the California Association for Neurologically Handicapped Children.

Parent and community members of the School Advisory Committee and PTA officers have indicated they would like classes that would help them understand normal growth patterns and the individuality of their children.

The public is invited to an Open House at the La Mesa Library, 8055 University ave., to honor the building extension recently completed. Friends of the La Mesa Library, La Mesa Women's and Jr. Women's Clubs will host the event, Wednesday, 1-3 p.m., providing free refreshments and music. A special presentation of gifts from La Mesa community groups will be made.

PTA Wants No Politics at Meetings

Over-zealous candidates making their "pitch" at PTA meetings are in violation of PTA's non-partisan policy, admonishes Ninth District, Inc., of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers.

In a recent letter to all candidates, District Director Barbara Brown outlined the non-partisan policy and advised that the "PTA is concerned with principles and issues and not with parties or candidates."

"When we have candidates for office at a meeting, all the candidates must be contacted by the unit and have an opportunity to speak. We discourage a 'drop-in' method of contacting parents as being a direct violation of our policy," said Brown.

Tickets are available at 271-4300, ext. 209 of USIU, or at the door at City College Theatre, at 14th and "C" streets.

3-Year Attack On Arthritis OK'd by Senate

The U.S. Senate recently passed unanimously a bill by Senator Alan Cranston (D., Calif.) to advance a national three-year attack on arthritis.

The bill, the National Arthritis Act (S. 2854), calls for a "planned strategy" over the next three years for research into the cause, prevention and cure of arthritis, along with analyses of new treatment techniques.

The Cranston bill, which is backed by the National Arthritis Foundation, the Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons, the American Academy of Pediatrics and the National Council on Senior Citizens, now goes to the House.

Health requirements mandate full water treatment and protection

VOTE YES
Proposition AA

...the fairest way to pay

Helix Water District must build vital new facilities to meet modern health and operational standards. These facilities can be financed best through the $11 million revenue bond issue proposed in Proposition AA, which would spread the cost between present and future water users. Since these works MUST be built, the only alternative is short-term financing which would require full repayment by present users.

These people and organizations believe revenue bonds to be the fairest and best way to provide the necessary construction funds.

TAX ANSWERS

F. S. Schmidt, DISTRICT DIRECTOR, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I have $30,000 in group term life insurance coverage which is paid for by my employer. Should the cost of this insurance coverage be included in my income?

A. No. In general, you must include the cost of group term life insurance provided to you by your employer only when the coverage is in excess of $50,000.

Q. In January, I gave my son $20,000 worth of stock as a wedding present. In July, I gave him another $3,000 gift. I know I'll have to file a Federal gift tax return because of these gifts. When is the annual filing deadline?

A. Federal gift tax returns are not filed annually. They are filed quarterly. If total gifts to any one person, when added to all previous gifts to that person during the calendar year, exceed $3,000, a gift tax return must be filed for that quarter and all gifts made during the year must be reported.

Insurance Institute Warns Of Halloween Hazards

In the fun and excitement of Halloween night, too often adults as well as children lower their defenses against safety hazards. The following, prepared by the Insurance Information Institute, reminds of the dangers of this festive evening that can be avoided with a little concern on behalf of parents and motorists.

Last Halloween, a young couple was helping their two young daughters get into costumes so they could go trick-or-treating. While the family was upstairs, a jack-o'-lantern candle in the living room window set fire to the curtains. The fire spread rapidly, trapping and killing all four members of the family. This particular event occurred in a Detroit suburb, but something like it could occur this year in any city or town in California.

Fortunately, most fires started by jack-o'-lanterns don't end so tragically, but the Institute warns that any fire is potentially dangerous. If you can't be persuaded to avoid candles altogether, keep lanterns well away from window curtains and never leave a room unattended where a candle is burning. Children — whose fun is the whole idea in Halloween celebrations — should be warned against carrying a lighted lantern, or any other open flame, for that matter.

Some other specific suggestions from the Institute:

1. Parents should see their children avoid flimsy, loose-fitting costumes and should look for labels with information about flammability. Homemade costumes should be of cotton and flame-retarded. (Mix a cup of borax and half a cup of boric acid in two quarts of water and dip, spray or sprinkle the solution on the costume. You can iron the costume afterward, but the retardant will wash out in laundering).

2. Drivers should go slowly and with particular care on Halloween. Watch for children darting from behind parked cars, and be especially careful when backing out of driveways.
3. Parents should be sure their children can see and be seen. Enlarge the eyeholes in masks, or better, have the children use facial makeup instead, so they can see. Choose light costumes, or put reflective tape on dark ones and on trick-or-treat bags. If there's a group of children, give the eldest a flashlight.

4. A final warning from the Institute: There are real fiends and goblins around on Halloween — the sort of people who put pins or razor blades in the candy and fruit they give youngsters. When your children return home, be sure to inspect what they've collected before you let them eat any of it.

Thousands Expected Downtown Tomorrow to Protest 'Sick Economy'

An estimated swell of 25,000 spokesman for the San Diego Imperial Counties Labor Council.

Expected to be the largest demonstration ever undertaken by the labor movement in San Diego, the march will include AFL-CIO unions, the Teamsters, United Auto and Aerospace Workers and other unaffiliated and independent labor organizations.

"Members of organized labor, their spouses and children, business people and organizations sympathetic to the cause of the working man are invited to participate," said Richardson.

"A strict stipulation for the granting of the parade permit by the San Diego Police Department was that the parade remain strictly non-partisan. No politicking will be permitted."

Parade starts at 9th and Broadway, moves west to Harbor drive, and proceeds to the County Administration Building for a brief rally.

Monte Vista Upsets Grossmont, 31-14

By Bob Traxler

Monte Vista's grid team pulled a major upset last week by defeating 10th ranked Grossmont 31-14.

Grossmont marched back the first kick of the game all the way for their first score, but Monte Vista answered with two second-quarter touchdowns, leaving a 14-7 halftime score.

The Monarchs added a third-period touchdown before the Foothillers came alive and scored again, making it 21-14. Monte Vista added a touchdown and a 22-yard field goal to put the game out of reach in the last quarter.

Matadors Suffer 7-0 Defeat to El Cajon

By Bob Traxler

El Cajon High's Braves defeated the Mt. Miguel Matadors 7-0 in a lachrymose, defensive show last Friday.

The Braves (3-0-1) had only 164 total yards offense vs. 149 by Mt. Miguel. The Matador defense held league-leading LeRoy McGee to 16 yards, his lowest figure this year.

Funny Car Nationals On Orange Weekend Card

IRVINE — A possible showdown between 1974 World Champions Shirl Greer (NHRA) and Don "the Snake" Prudhomme (AHRA) lends added excitement to this weekend's Manufacturers Funny Car Nationals at Orange County International Raceway.

Greer's Georgia-based Mustang and Prudhomme's feared Cuda are both listed among the 32 Ford, Plymouth, Dodge and GM dragsters set to square off in "team" competition at 7 Saturday evening.

And the Greer group (Ford) opens against Prudhomme's Plymouths in Round One of the intersquad action. The four squads remain intact, and each eventually meets all others during the three featured rounds of team competition. Art Hafez, Manny Lujan Top Coliseum Friday Fight Card

Irish Art Hafez, easily the most popular of the San Diego fighters, squares off Friday with the Mexican 19-year old whiz kid Al Medrano in the feature event at Mickey Davies' San Diego Coliseum at 15th and E sts.

Hafez, now ranked third among the world's featherweights, is a man who has vaulted to the top of his division on brute strength and punching power. It all came together for the quiet, 22 year old Canadian transplant when in a bout on September 15th, 1973, he dropped Ruben Olivares to the canvas on five occasions enroute to an upset victory.

Then after Hafez suffered controversial losses in a rematch with Olivares, the current champion, and to No. 1 contender Alexis Arguello, he returned to win a spectacular knockout over Cagney Delfino Rodriguez in the 10th and final round here in San Diego.

Now holding down a record of 31-3-1, Hafez's last bout against Chu Cho Castillo for October 11th was postponed indefinitely at the request of the former bantamweight king.

The teenaged Medrano (27-13), a slick boxing stylist, could temporarily ruin Hafez's chances for a near future title shot.

The teenage Medrano is a native of Reynosa, Mexico, who became interested in boxing through his childhood whiz kid Al Medrano in the feature event at Mickey Davies' San Diego Coliseum at 15th and E sts.

Promoter Davies also announced that San Diego High senior Manuel Lujan, a featherweight unbeaten in eight outings, and popular heavyweight knockout artist Carlos Tijerina, a winner of five straight, will appear on the same card.

Coliseum doors open Friday at 6:45, with popular young recording artist Jeff Valdez entertaining from 7 to 7:45. The first of three amateur bouts will get underway at 8 p.m.

Last Friday
"Irish" Denny Moyer, the aging former world junior middleweight champion let experience provide the difference Friday night when he won a unanimous decision over Vicente Medina in the 10-round feature at the Coliseum.

Only one of the three official scorekeepers gave Medina as much as one round. The other two had it 10-1 for Moyer.

Medina had wiped out any hopes San Diego's David Love had for rising to the middleweight top when he scored a one-round knockout over the San Diegan here in mid-June.

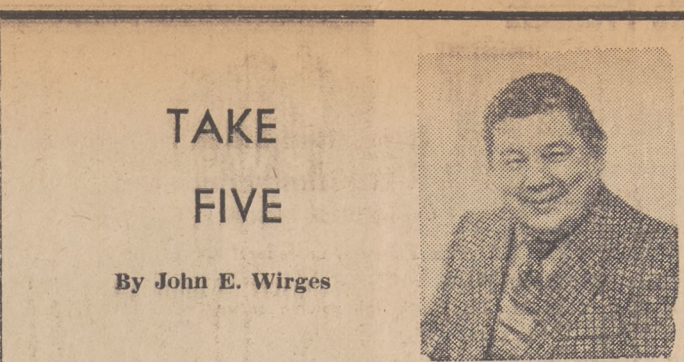

Medina lost a lop-sided Moyon late in June but someone convinced him he couldn't win a return fight. He couldn't. Medina was bleeding from an eye cut from the fourth round and from the nose in the 10th.

Moyer's Hand
Moyer appeared to have hurt his right hand late in the fight. He didn't use it at all in the last two rounds. After the fight he claimed he "didn't have to use it."

In an 8-round middleweight fight Hiva Serona of Samoa scored a second round knockout over Mario Garcia at 46 seconds. Garcia is the brother of the flashy Renato Garcia of Chile who is to top the Coliseum card in mid-November.

Two heavyweights, both lacking steam, punched each other for five rounds to a "split decision draw". Where Mel Marshall, of Oceanside, was ineffective, Pinto Spears, of National City, was even more so. It was a lack-lustre match-up.

In an 8-round semi-main featherweight Ray Martinez of Phoenix was awarded the decision over Carlos Perez of Los Angeles.

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

Lord help us. We are now to become victims of an egotistical bureaucracy that claims being a sports fan in San Diego is a punishable crime. And they are getting ready to take their measure.

In case you missed it last week, the San Diego Stadium Authority Board's management committee voted unanimously to raise parking rates at the stadium. It will be $2 for Padre, Aztec and outer ring Charger parking and $3 for inner ring Charger parking.

And, if that wasn't enough, this greedy power bunch claim their major concern is to cut energy use and dampen traffic congestion.

It seems the exhaust fumes generated by home headed fans gives stadium officials cause to worry about the environmental quality of the parking premises.

Isn't it marvelous to have such concerned citizens in the lofty position of shoving their judgments down our throats?

Question. Will the highjacked fee achieve country freshness and cool breezes for the afflicted stadium parking lot?

Answer. No. But the extra money will soothe their sense of honor and they will feel better having done their sacred duty.

It makes one wonder why this band of fee highjackers isn't equally disturbed about the flow of exhaust fumes over on Interstate-8 or on the other broad avenues of our daily going and coming.

Just a simple extension of our wondrous Stadium Board's philosophy, and they could earn vast amounts of environmentally soothing cash.

All the Board has to do is extend the outer limits of the stadium parking lot south to include Interstate-8, set up a toll gate and collect $2 for the outer lanes and $3 for the inner lanes.

Why our Stadium Authority is taking a page right out of the major oil company's game book. The one that says, "when you control it, squeeze every drop of money out of it you can."

The funny thing . . . neither the Chargers, nor the Aztecs seem to mind. Strange. It makes one think that the hanky could meet the pankey when football and the dictatorship of the stadium get together. But football only accounts for 18 dates a year at the stadium. The Padres host nearly 80. Are they for the highjack?

Hell no, they are not. Padre prey E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi is rip snortin' again' it. And well he should be. He fought a hard and long battle to woo fans to watch his club. Now, just when things look as if San Diego really is a "baseball town," after all, greedy power politics are going to squeeze blood out of the turnip.

It took some mighty hard efforts and six seasons of prayer for the Padres to climb to the million fans mark. The miracle of it all is the Padres are still addressed in Mission Valley. This time last year they weren't, you know.

Bavasi and his owner Ray Kroc have some great things planned for San Diego fans. The goal is name players, a climb in the standings and contention.

But if the politicians have their way, it will cost more to park than it will to see the game. Bleacherites are welcome for a buck, fifty. That's four bits cheaper than the new parking fee.

There is something else the greedy board members ought to consider. Attendance is down in San Diego stadium this fall. It could be football just doesn't have the same charm it once had, but I really doubt that. The problem is more likely cash flow.

Working folks are watching their cash flow right out of their pockets for auto payments, house payments, food and the other luxuries of life.

Somewhat it seems fittin' and proper that a gang of self righteous, arrogant, power controlling bureaucrats would time such a highjacking announcement after election day.

And that's when they're going to do it, folks. The committee's recommendation will be presented to the board on Nov. 13, a week and a day after election. It's an old American political custom. And ain't that something.

Following Friday's game the Q's will not see any action for seven days. After the first two hectic weeks on the schedule, which has seen the club play nine games in 13 days (six of those on the road) the rest will be well deserved. San Diego will then take on the Stars in Utah on Nov. 9, the Nuggets in Denver on Nov. 10, the Sounds of Memphis on Nov. 12 before returning home to begin a six game home stand on Wednesday, November 13 against the Nuggets.

The nice surprises for the Q's so far this season have to be Grant, Jones and O'Brien. Travis Grant through the first six games has averaged over 27 points per game, including a 44 points performance against New York on opening night and a 41 point outburst against the Memphis Sounds. Travis is also shooting over 90% from the free throw line.

Caldwell Jones, the young exciting center for the Q's has already had rebounding nights of 25 and 23. He is shooting well over 50% from the field and 90% from the free throw line.

Crosstown Game Saturday Pits USD and USIU

Smarting from a loss in which they surrendered the most points ever scored by an opponent, USD's Toreros attempt to right themselves Saturday afternoon in a cross-town football battle with United States International University.

Kickoff is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. in San Diego's Balboa Stadium with USIU the host school.

Both teams will be trying to rebound from decisive losses. USD was overwhelmed by Humboldt State, 53-7, last week as its season record dropped to two wins against six losses. USIU was on the short end of a 35-14 encounter with Cal Lutheran and its 1974 reading stands at 3-2.

USD coach Dick Logan, shuffling his running backs because of numerous injuries, will probably have freshmen Steve Goodbody and John Tryon as his main ball carriers. Goodbody has 407 yards in 95 carries for a 4.3 average while Tryon has 132 yards in 33 tries for a 4.0 mark.

USIU began its current campaign in high fashion with a 36-0 whitewash of Redlands, a 13-3 win over LaVerne and a 31-6 thumping of Claremont-Mudd. The Westerners have had ill-sailing the past two weeks, however, with a 21-7 defeat at Whittier coupled with last week's loss to high-scoring Cal Lutheran.

Faculty salaries and fringe benefits have risen 41.6 percent since the 1967-68 academic year according to the American Association of University Professors. The cost-of-living index rose 38.5 percent during the same period.

Cleveland Browns (2-5) Meet Chargers Sunday at 1 p.m.

The Mt. Miguel High School band will perform Sunday at San Diego Stadium.

That may be the most pleasant event on a day that also has the Cleveland Browns engaging San Diego's Chargers.

A hometown team that has racked up but three wins in the two years can hardly be expected to upstage any of the other forms of entertainment offered as a collateral attraction.

Kickoff will be at 1 p.m. The game will be broadcast by Andy Musser and Dick Van Raaphorst on KSDO (1130).

San Diego's newest football hero, Don Woods, will be in evidence again. Woods is closing the running game between himself and O. J. Simpson.

After running for 154 yards against Kansas City for his fourth 100-yard outburst in five games, Woods trails Simpson by only nine yards for the American Conference rushing lead. The Chargers' rookie-of-the-year candidate has 622 yards and a 6.7 average to 631 yards and a 4.3 average for Simpson.

"Woods is sensational," said Kansas City Coach Hank Stram. "He's got to be one of the great backs in the NFL."

But the 6-2, 210-pound former quarterback from the University of New Mexico expressed the sentiment of all Chargers when he said, "It The game will be broadcast feels good to get a lot of yards, but it don't mean nothing if you're not winning."

San Diego (1-6) enters the second half of the season en-cumbered by a five-game losing streak. The Chargers bowed to Kansas City, 24-14, before 36,084 (paid) at San Diego Stadium last Sunday despite gaining 404 yards against the strong defense of the Chiefs.

Cleveland 2 and 5
Cleveland (2-5) comes off a rousing upset of the Denver

Broncos, 23-21, produced on two touchdowns in the final 5:27, both on runs by reserve quarterback Brian Sipe from San Diego State.

Sunday's game will be the final home contest for San Diego until Dec. 8. The Chargers have successive games on the road against Kansas City, Oakland, Green Bay and the New York Jets before returning home to finish the year against Chicago and Denver.

The Series between San Diego and Cleveland is tied, 1-1. The teams played even, 16-16, at Cleveland last year. Even the one pre-season game between the teams ended in a deadlock.

It will be an initial San Diego homecoming Sunday for four members of the Cleveland Browns. Middle linebacker Bob Babich and tight end James Thaxton were former Charger players. Quarterback Brian Sipe was a San Diego State, Grossmont College and Grossmont High School standout. Guard Pete Adams attended University High School.

Charger coach Tommy Prothro commenting on his team's record: "The last time I was 1-6 was at Snowden Junior High School. I was a player then and I know we lost a lot of games."

Snowden Junior High is in Prothro's hometown of Memphis, Tenn. As a highly-successful coach, the 54-year-old mentor can't remember ever being 1-4.

Last Week

The best pass reception of the year in San Diego did not count. Leaping Gary Garrison took a touchdown pass away from three Kansas City defenders only to be ruled out of bounds on his landing.

Garrison did catch six for 92 yards to move into second place in the AFC with 25 catches and a 15.1 average. Cliff Branch of Oakland leads with 29 and 17.9.

There were 21,452 reserved and general admission tickets to be sold as of Monday.

Six More Games on Aztecs Hockey Schedule

For those who can't get enough hockey, San Diego State's Aztecs are filling the gap.

The Hockey Aztecs are in their fifth year and the squad matures each year, according to Dr. Dennis Selder, Aztec player-coach.

The Aztecs belong to the tough Southwestern Collegiate Hockey League which includes power-house teams such as UCLA, Stanford, Santa Rosa City College and N. Arizona. U. and have won the title for four consecutive years.

Games are played at Mira Mesa House of Ice at 5:20 p.m. and La Mesa House of Ice at 5:30. The schedule is: November 23, UCLA at Mira Mesa

N. Texas State Hosts Aztecs Saturday Daytime

Daytime football is a bit of an oddity for San Diego State football teams, but the Aztecs will get their first taste in the sunshine Saturday against North Texas State in a game scheduled for 2 p.m. at Fouts Field on the Mean Green campus.

N. Texas State saw its record fall to 1-5 when it suffered a 41-0 loss to Memphis State last week. Memphis had 328 yards total offense and held the Mean Green to 276 yards. NTS freshman quarterback Ken Washington had 142 yards total offense against Memphis State. He hit 9 of 16 passes for 131 yards, but picked up only 11 yards rushing on nine carries. Washington is the younger brother of Oklahoma's fine running back Joe Washington.

San Diego State came into last week's action rated 18th in the nation on the United Press International poll and the upped its record to 5-1 for the season with a 27-17 win. The Aztecs are also 3-0 in PCAA play and need only a win over Pacific to wrap up a third consecutive conference championship.

San Diego State rolled up 328 yards total offense against Long Beach State, but Aztec coach Claude Gilbert was not pleased with his team's effort and substituted freely in both the offensive and defensive lines.

"We just can't seem to sustain any consistency," Gilbert said. "We were a very poor football team against Long Beach. The offensive line didn't block anyone in the first half and we got the first team defense out after Long Beach's opening drive. We tried to shake some people up. This is a frustrating and puzzling team."

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I have recently done a brief analysis of several projects along the North County Coast. This study involved reviewing all the files of nine developments including rezones, special use permits, variances, tentative map and site plans. In addition I have communicated with several people directly involved with these projects.

My impression is that the Planning Department staff may have been or presently are confronted with undue pressures or departmental review.

The public has clearly shown that it will no longer condone attempts by its elected and appointed officials to keep the affairs of government secret. The public demands openness, full disclosure and a high ethical standard in the affairs of government. Achieving this goal is made difficult by the grey area of borderline activity involving questions of propriety, influence over process and conflict of interest.

The community planning process has brought, for the first time, direct citizen input into the process. Your awareness of the community and sophistication regarding land use matters have had an enormous impact on the decision-making process. Your effectiveness is readily apparent in the history of attempts to eliminate the planning groups from active participation.

That the private and political influence on the entire planning and land use decision-making process need great attention and modification is obvious. Input from your planning group, Grand Jury reports for the last three years, comments and suggestions from planning department employees, both past and present, all point to a need for change, leading to a more effective process.

It has appeared to me that the most effective way to fully review the system is to appoint an independent body of citizens for this purpose. In order to assist them in their task, I am asking for your help.

If your readers have any input regarding defects in the existing process, or suggestions for improvements that will make the procedure more responsive, I welcome them. You can either write them up for me or contact my office at 236-2249. If they feel that my opinions are off base, then I need to know that also. It is only with their assistance that we can insure a system, responsive to the needs of all within the community, equally.

Sincerely,
Jack Walsh
First District Supervisor

Dear Editor:

I strongly believe that one of the most serious problems in government today is integrity and openness. That is why, when I announced my candidacy for State Assembly in the new 77th Assembly District, I promised to do at least three things: First, to make a complete and total financial disclosure of all assets and their values, a disclosure which exceeds the Waxman-Dymally requirements and all other requirements of law.

Second, disclosure to the public and the San Diego County press my federal and state income tax returns.

Third, I also promised to disclose the name, occupation and employer of every contributor even though they may have given $99.99 or less, in which case disclosure is not required by law.

I am proud to say that I have kept all three promises. My opponent, incumbent Assemblyman Bob Wilson, D-La Mesa, however, has refused to make these disclosures.

Assemblyman Wilson has not made a total and complete financial disclosure although he was required by law and therefore did file the very limited Waxman-Dymally forms. He has not, as an example, given any information whatsoever about the antique business which he operates in Sacramento and which he (Wilson) admits is "the largest antique business in northern California." Wilson has also not given the names, let alone the occupations or employers, of contributors of $99.99 or less.

Why does the incumbent Assemblyman Bob Wilson refuse to make these disclosures?

Is it because he does in fact own and operate on the side while he is in Sacramento the largest antique business in northern California (a statement which he has admitted on a number of occasions)?

He admits that this antique business is composed of two large stores which comprise 18,000 square feet of antiques and which earned him more than $10,000 in the first two months of operation alone.

I believe that the electorate is entitled to know the business interests which an elected official runs on the side while he is in Sacramento.

Or, does the incumbent Assemblyman Bob Wilson refuse to make these disclosures since he has denied that he is practicing law on the side while the Waxman-Dymally disclosure forms show that he in fact is practicing law on the side and the fact that he does in fact have income from the practice of law?

If these are not the reasons that Assemblyman Wilson refuses to make a complete and total financial disclosure, what are the reasons?

Whatever the reasons, I feel that Assemblyman Wilson owes it to the electorate to follow my lead and to make these disclosures.

Sincerely,
Mike Bollman
Candidate, State Assembly, 77th Assembly District

Dear Editor:

Any organization or member of the law enforcement profession who would endorse or vote for Jerry Brown in preference to Houston Flournoy as governor of California, would have to be politically naive with complete indifference to the war on crime and their own welfare.

Auto Products Account for 22% Retail Trade Here

A new statistical report released by E. James Houseberg and Alan F. Senger, regional government relations and information representatives of the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association, shows that nearly 22% of all retail trade in the state involves the sale of automobiles and related products including gasoline.

Special studies conducted by MVMA also show that domestic manufacturers of motor vehicles, not including independent suppliers employ 28,900 workers with an annual payroll of $323 million. Annual taxes paid by these firms to state and local governments amount to nearly $31 million. Motor vehicle makers also spend more than $306 million a year with supplier firms in the state.

Your Health Tips Hypoglycemia

Hypoglycemia (low blood sugar) has recently become a popular topic. Since it is frequently accompanied by nervousness, perspiration, shakiness, headache, weakness, palpitations, hunger and changes in vision, hypoglycemia has taken a kind of catch-all blame when these symptoms have occurred. Actually, low blood sugar is rarely the agent responsible for such symptoms; other reasons, such as simple anxiety, being far more common.

Before the hypoglycemia label is attached to an individual, it is necessary that a blood test (or series of tests) be performed documenting the low blood sugar at the time of the associated symptoms.

Many Causes
Hypoglycemia is a manifestation of a problem, not a diagnosis in itself. Saying a person has hypoglycemia is similar to saying he has a pain in the chest. One must seek the reason for the symptom, and there are many causes of hypoglycemia.

The most common kind of low blood sugar—reactive hypoglycemia—occurs in adults a few hours after meals. Since many people who ingest sugar show a temporary lowering of the blood sugar some hours afterwards without any symptoms, the occurrence of reactive hypoglycemia generally does not require treatment unless symptoms occur on a regular basis. Then treatment is usually a matter of altering the diet. Rarely, in difficult cases, certain oral medications are used.

In children, on the other hand, hypoglycemia after eating may be the initial manifestation of a number of different conditions, the recognition and treatment of which are crucial to the growth and development of the child. Such episodes of hypoglycemia symptoms appearing in children require prompt medical attention.

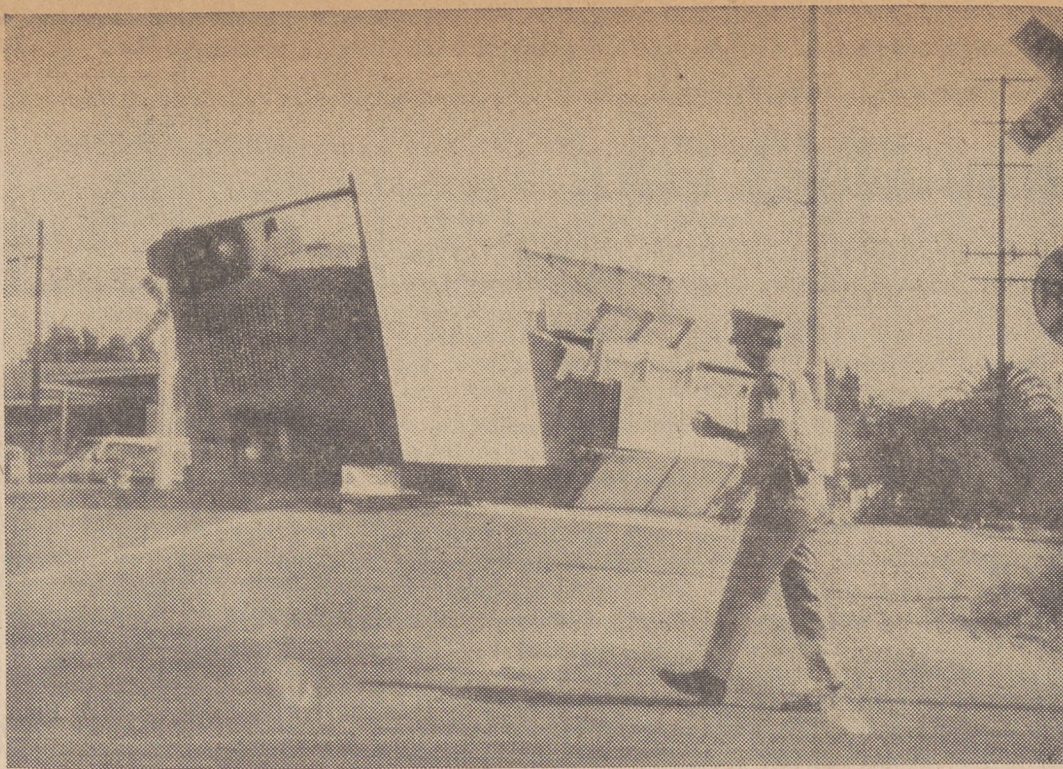

Fasting
If a low blood sugar attack occurs while fasting (generally in the early hours of the morning before breakfast), a complete medical investigation, including detailed laboratory studies, is indicated. Since the conditions which cause this kind of hypoglycemia generally produce recurrent and potentially dangerous episodes, appropriate diagnostic investigations are imperative. Curative therapy can be launched in most cases once the cause for this type of hypoglycemia is found.

With regard to fasting hypoglycemia, one problem—failure or insufficiency of the adrenal glands—deserves particular mention. Although low blood sugar may be caused by adrenal insufficiency (itself an uncommon problem), the loss of adrenal function is a rare cause of hypoglycemia. Treatment for loss of adrenal function is routinely carried out with highly purified, orally administered preparations of adrenal hormones.

This treatment is emphasized since 30 or 40 years ago an adrenal cortical extract prepared from animal glands was tested for use in treatment of adrenal insufficiency. It proved virtually useless since it contained only minute quantities of the necessary hormones. Today this extract is of historical interest only and is not appropriate treatment for any cause of hypoglycemia.

In summary, symptoms associated with hypoglycemia must be medically investigated and confirmed through laboratory tests in order for your physician to launch appropriate and curative treatment.

Noise Target of Public Hearing

A new plan aimed at reducing the harmful and annoying effects of noise will be discussed at a public hearing before the County Planning Commission Friday.

The hearing is held in Room 358 of the County Administration Center, 1600 Pacific Hwy., San Diego.

The plan is presented in the Noise Element, a proposed addition to the San Diego County General Plan. A 10-member citizens committee in conjunction with the County Planning Department staff prepared the proposal.

The purpose of the Noise Element is to reduce the effects of noise in the County by adopting policies which will improve planning, building and development practices, according to Janet Britt, chairperson of the citizens committee. State law requires all cities and counties to prepare and adopt a plan to reduce noise.

The hearing before the County Planning Commission is the first step in the adoption process.

Head Tax Brings $9,786 to County

SACRAMENTO—State Controller Houston I. Flournoy announced the payment of $9,786 to San Diego County in reimbursement for income lost through State-mandated reduction in livestock head-day taxes during the 1973-74 fiscal year which ended June 30, 1974.

San Diego County's payment was part of a distribution to 55 counties totaling $2,317,480. Los Angeles, San Francisco and Trinity Counties did not file claims.

The reimbursements were based on claims by each county showing the amount of tax income lost due to the livestock tax reduction. Each county auditor is required to distribute the reimbursement among the various taxing entities within each county according to entitlements.

Imperial County received the largest total payment, $419,280.

Griggs said that veterans applying for the jobs must also qualify for on-the-job training benefits under the GI bill. In addition, each applicant must meet the Division of Forestry's age and physical fitness requirements.

Undue Noise Brings Charge

When residents in a La Mesa park area complained to the sheriff's department that undue noise was coming from an auto in the park, it triggered a series of events that led to a charge with possession of marijuana against Lawrence Alan Black of 3941 Agua Dulce blvd., Casa de Oro.

There were others in the car but four cigarettes and two roaches in a brown box were said to be the property of Black.

Charges will be heard against him in El Cajon Superior Court.

Buying-Power Down in New State Highway Budget

A $885 million State highway budget for the 1975-76 fiscal year was approved last week by the California Highway Commission. The 1975-76 fiscal year begins next July.

The inflationary squeeze on highway building represents $228 million less buying power in the new budget compared to the 1967-68 "base year" budget, transportation officials claim.

District 11, which includes San Diego, Imperial, and East Riverside Counties, will receive $41 million covering a variety of highway projects including $3,450,000 as this year's share of the financing for revising the interchange between Routes 94 and 125.

New Bicycle Law Adds Reflectors Says CHP

Bicycle equipment requirements will be upgraded by a new law which goes into effect January 1, Captain L. De Groff, Commander of the California Highway Patrol's San Diego Area, said recently.

The law calls for additional reflectors, to improve nighttime visibility of all bikes. A white reflector will be required on the front of the bike. A white or yellow reflector must be installed on each side forward of the center of the bicycle (usually a two-way reflector in the spokes), and a white or red reflector is required on each side to the rear of center. The side reflectors may be omitted if the bicycle is equipped with reflectorized tires, front and rear.

New reflectors are an addition to present requirements for a white light on the front of the bike, visible for 300 feet, and a red reflector on the rear, also visible for 300 feet. The law also permits a red lamp on the rear, visible for 300 feet, in addition to the reflector.

Captain De Groff said the law specifies that reflectorized tires or reflectors on the front, sides and rear of a bicycle must be visible from 500 feet and they must be of a type approved by the Highway Patrol.

He said the added safety provisions were necessary because the increased popularity of bicycle riding has been accompanied by a much higher incidence of bicycle accidents. So far this year in the San Diego area, there have been 96 bicycle accidents with 2 deaths and 88 injuries.

Sales Up, Volume Down

While second-quarter taxable sales of more than $16.9 billion totaled $1.1 billion more than during the similar period of 1973, sales volume actually declined by more than 2.5 percent from the second quarter of 1973, according to a report released by State Board of Equalization Member John W. Lynch.

The 7.3 percent increase in dollar amount of taxable sales was the smallest quarter-to-year growth since the spring of 1971.

The report shows that for the first time since the fall of 1970, taxable sales growth failed to maintain pace with rising prices.

Taxable sales in San Diego County for the second quarter of 1974 were up 9.7 percent for a total of $1.07 million.

CTA is 'Labor Union' Says Educators Head

SACRAMENTO—"California Teachers Association has become just another labor union heavily involved in partisan politics," a Sacramento education leader charged in the wake of CTA's recent endorsement of an all-Democratic Party slate of candidates for state constitutional offices.

Dr. Wayne D. Barton, chairman of the engineering department of Sacramento City College and president of Professional Educators Group of California, labeled as "defective bargaining for public employees. While they claim that their support is being given to candidates who favor 'quality education,' CTA is actually bestowing its favors and funds on candidates who will condone the organization's new militancy and its push to unionize the teaching profession," he said.

Barton noted that "thousands of teachers have been leaving CTA each year because of their dissatisfaction with the organization's new advocacy of collective bargaining, the right to strike, agency shop legislation, exclusive representation, and higher and higher dues—part of which now goes into partisan political campaigns."

CTA Raps Ford's Economic Programs

BURLINGAME—Bryan Stevens, president of the 145,000-member California Teachers Association (CTA) personally blasted President Ford's economic program as being nothing but "more of the same process of enriching the corporations at the expense of the consumer while doing nothing at all to fight inflation."

Stevens, teacher of economics for 15 years, referred to specific parts of the program. "The tax surcharge does nothing but leave the poor where they are now while hitting the average consumer who is already staggering under the reduced purchasing power caused by inflation. Having lost 12 cents on the dollar last year because of inflated prices, the new tax surcharge hits again."

Stevens indicated that the state to operate a lottery.

average wage in the United States is greater than $7,500 a year, and a greater percentage of families have incomes in excess of $15,000. "It is another case of the traditional classical economic theory that makes the consumer a vassal to the corporation. The tax surcharge on corporations is more than offset by the 7 percent to 10 percent investment tax credit and the deduction allowed for dividends on preferred stocks," he said.

Sea World in Fish Swap Deal

Sea World began a trade program recently with a Japanese aquarium in Miura City, Kanagawa, when the San Diego marine park exchanged two of its alligator gars for the rarely exhibited pinenose fish, native of Japan.

The alligator gars, Lepisosteus tristoechus, were shipped to Los Angeles, then transferred to Japan Airlines for the flight to Japan. Each are about four feet long and weigh approximately 40 pounds.

The gars, a hardy alligator-looking fish, are abundant in the southeast United States. They were shipped in watertight fiberglass boxes, specially made for the 15-hour transcontinental flight.

Since the alligator gars are air-breathers, the usual filtration and water circulation systems were not necessary. The two gars are among six which have been on exhibit in the Sea World Freshwater Aquarium at Sea World since 1968.

The pinenose fish, Monoctenistris japonicus, are an unusual species for aquarium exhibit. The only other U. S. aquarium having the unusual looking fish is Steinhart Aquarium in San Francisco.

The tiny fish reach a maximum length of five inches. Among their unusual characteristics are luminescent organs under the "chin" which produce light by means of the symbiotic phosphorescent bacteria. Their scales are exaggerated and modified into plate-like armor resembling the pine cones for which they are named.

The saltwater fish is found in deep water around Japan and off the coast of Australia. A special aquarium tank is being designed for the pinenose fish, which will duplicate their native tropical environment in Japan.

Vehicles Pollute Less

Vehicles in use on California's streets and highways are emitting less pollution with each successive model year, an eight-year survey by the State Air Resources Board has confirmed.

A random sample of on-the-road vehicles showed that, compared with uncontrolled pre-1966 cars, 1974 models emit 83 percent less hydrocarbons, 79 percent less carbon monoxide, and 58 percent less oxides of nitrogen.

Otay Park Reopened; Heise Improved

Lower Otay Camping and Picnic Park reopened Sunday, public through Sunday.

The temporary closure of the park is necessary for the County of San Diego to replace the water storage system.

The County Parks and Recreation Department suggests that campers and picnickers use Potrero County Park while lower Otay is closed.

Potrero is located 42 miles east on Highway 94, then one mile north on Potrero Valley rd. The park is available on Fridays and Saturdays, 9:30 a.m.-9 p.m.; and Sundays, 9:30 a.m.-6 p.m.

Renovations

William Heise Regional Park now has an additional 140 family picnic units available for public use.

The new picnic units are complete with tables, stoves, and water. The addition of the new units brings the park's total of picnic units to 170.

Camping sites are also available at the park which is located four miles southwest of Julian in Central East County.

For the public's convenience, the County Parks and Recreation Department suggests phoning for reservations. The number to call is 440-3911 or 239-P.A.R.K.
